Full-Time Tenure-Track Position in Political Science (Political Theory)

The Institute of Political Science (ICP) of the Pontificia Universidad Católica de Chile invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track assistant professorship in Political Theory. Candidates in all research areas may apply, but we are particularly interested in research programs related to applied topics in Political Theory, such as migration, human rights, environmental political theory, global justice, normative analysis of political and economic institutions, etc.

The Pontificia Universidad Católica de Chile is consistently ranked as one of the top 5 universities in Latin America, and the ICP is among the highest ranked political science departments in the region. Comprised of a highly international group of scholars, it is a hub of theoretical, empirical and applied research in the region. The ICP offers undergraduate, M.A., and Ph.D. programs. It admits the most talented Chilean students to its undergraduate and graduate programs, and hosts a large number of exchange students and visiting professors from all over the world. Santiago is a vibrant metropolitan area, located just a short drive away from Chile's renowned Pacific Coast and spectacular Andean mountain range.

Teaching obligations are limited to three courses per year, typically distributed 2-1. Fluency in Spanish is valued, but any candidate who expresses a willingness to perfect basic proficiency is encouraged to apply. The ICP offers financial support for language classes, and courses may initially be taught in English.

Applicants must demonstrate a strong commitment to high-quality research, publishing, and teaching. They must hold a Ph.D. degree in Political Science (or its equivalent). ABDs are welcome to apply as long as they obtain their degree by the position's starting date. The ICP values diversity and welcomes applications from colleagues of any actual or perceived gender, gender identity, race, color, national origin, sexual orientation, marital status, disability, or religion.

Applications should include a personal letter, a curriculum vitae, a writing sample (e.g., a journal article or book or dissertation chapter), and a teaching portfolio that includes student evaluations and sample course syllabi. Candidates should also include graduate transcripts, official copies of their B.A., M.A., and Ph.D. degrees, and three letters of recommendation in their application package.

Please direct informal inquiries or application packages (in either English or Spanish) via e-mail to the Search Committee at searchicp@uc.cl until March 30th. The position's starting date is August 1st, 2023.

The Pontificia Universidad Católica de Chile is committed to providing equal opportunities and promoting the academic careers of all its members, and building an inclusive, diverse, and welcoming community.

A foreign national who applies and gets selected for this position while residing outside of Chile will be required to obtain the relevant visa from the Chilean consulate in their country of residence before they can take up the appointment. The University and the Instituto offer support for the visa application process.
